What of the Lake Level?

The question of whether or not there will be high water in Okanagan Lake this year is one which is being debated by interested parties and opinions differ.

One group says that there is no danger, as the runoff is earlier than usual and is proceeding most satisfactorily. In this group are included His Worship the Mayor who is chairman of the Okanagan Valley Flood Control Committee, and various government officials whose job it is to control the lake.

On the other hand, there is a large group of people, many of whom have watched conditions over a long period, who feel that a very real danger of high water does exist. This group is generally skeptical of the claims that the runoff is now passed its peak. The persons in this school of thought point out that the spring has been dry and admittedly favorable to heavy evaporation, but that such conditions usually, almost invariably, encourage a wet June which accentuates the runoff to a very considerable degree.

They point out that the lake is now 13.5 inches higher than it was on the same date in 1948 which ended in a disastrous high water record. It is now just two feet higher than it was at the same date last year and is just about six inches below last year's peak. Moreover it is now within ten and a half inches of the agreed maximum which is the danger point. These persons point out this situation is potentially dangerous. There has as yet been no indication that the runoff is easing up; many doubt the peak of the runoff has been reached. Add the rains of a wet June to the lake and the lake could rise quickly and far beyond the agreed maximum, affecting health and industry.

The outflow of Okanagan Lake was reduced a week ago from 1,200 cubic feet a second to 800. This was done to give some relief to a small river-flooded area south of Oliver. At that time there was no undue concern here, but the picture has now apparently changed; the rise in the lake during the past week is well demonstrated by the fact that Kelowna or Mill Creek is now backed up a considerable distance from the lake, and basements in that area will soon begin to show signs of flooding as the creek waters seep through the ground over a wide area.

Here it is not a flash flood proposition; it is not like a river flood which can subside as quickly as it rises. Here it is a summer-long proposition, once the lake goes above the agreed maximum. With this in mind, the federal authorities who control the lake outlet should increase the flow back to 1,200 at the earliest possible moment. As soon as the creeks flowing into the river south of the dam show any signs of abating, the river flow itself should be stepped up.

The present situation, of course, would never have arisen had the federal and provincial authorities not shilly-shallyed with the carrying out of the Okanagan Flood Control project which has been on paper and agreed to by both governments for years. Since 1948 there have been a procession of excuses why the work was not commenced, none of them very satisfactory. Should there be high water this year the responsibility must rest directly with the federal government which has been the principal stalling factor.

DARING RESCUE

Two Youths Have Narrow Escape After Speedboat Dumps Occupants on Turn

SPILLED from an untied speedboat, two Kelowna youths nearly got into difficulties in Okanagan Lake yesterday afternoon as they tried to prevent their pilotless craft from crashing into a pier.

For close to five minutes the Caprice zoomed around crazily after dumping its occupants—Tom Capozzi and Johnny MacAllister—into the cold water about 100 yards off from the ferry wharf.

Both were in a near state of exhaustion after swimming around trying to catch the Caprice. Once MacAllister came perilously close to being hit by the speedboat.

The youths' predicament was spotted simultaneously by Jack Chambers of the Ferry Boat House and Roy Bostock. Chambers took his water taxi out while Bostock, working on his speedboat Paddy at the Aquatic, came from the other direction.

Onlookers at the shore thought MacAllister was a goner when he was almost hit by the Caprice. Chambers opined it had happened MacAllister might have been "badly chewed up" by the propeller.

$3,000 Arthritis Drive Gets Underway Monday

CAMPAIGN to raise $3,000 for the Kelowna and district Arthritis and Rheumatism Society gets underway next Monday. Quota for the city is $1,300 while the balance will be raised in rural areas.

According to Chris Hansen, campaign chairman, total of 2,715 treatments were given to 145 patients between Peachland and Winfield during the past year.

It costs a minimum of $5,000 to operate the Kelowna unit for one year. Through the B.C. division of the C.A. and R.S. additional financial aid is received from the government.

On the basis of $2.50 a treatment, it would have cost patients a total of $4,787.50 last year. Mr. Hansen pointed out. Treatments are repeated as often as necessary and patients pay as much as they are able to afford, up to $2.50 a treatment, or are treated free of charge if necessary. Costs of diagnosis and X-rays are borne by the Kelowna branch if patients are unable to pay.

The society's physiotherapist in her well-known "Bluebird" car has travelled 4,813 miles to administer 1,443 treatments to bed-ridden patients. Total of 1,363 treatments were given to patients who visited the clinic at the hospital, while hospitalized patients received 89 treatments.

The campaign, which starts next Monday, concludes on June 8, following is a breakdown of figures and list of canvassers:

CAMPAIGN TO RAISE $3,000 for the Kelowna and District Arthritis and Rheumatism Society gets underway next Monday. The familiar "Bluebird" car which the local physiotherapist uses to give treatments to patients who are unable to get out of their homes, is shown in the above picture, along with four officials of the local arthritis society.

Move Magistrate's Office

Present magistrate's office on Mill Avenue will be demolished in order that landscaping plans on the civic centre site may be completed, it was learned this morning.

City and district police court will be located above Percy Harding and Sons Hardware Store on Bernard Avenue. The move is expected to be made within the next week or ten days.

Completion of landscaping plans on the civic centre site have been held up until the present structure is moved. When the grounds are beautified, Kelowna will have one of the most attractive civic centres in Western Canada.

Work is proceeding under the direction of Alderman Dick Parkinson, chairman of the parks committee. It is understood lawn seed will be planted within the next ten days, and that some of the evergreen trees in The City Park will be moved to the civic centre property. Some of these trees are ten to twenty feet high. Plans do not call for the removal until next spring.

The provincial government has been urged to clean up the property along the lakefront facing the City Hall. When the civic centre landscaping is completed, it is felt the government-owned land will be very shabby when compared with the civic centre.

Civic Heads Worried Over Rise In Lake

Civic officials are extremely worried over the rapid rise in Lake Okanagan.

During the last three days the lake has risen over four inches, and if it comes much higher it will affect the operations of the S. M. Simpson Lumber Company. In some places the water is within eight inches of the boilers. S. M. Simpson admitted if the lake rises much higher, the mill may be forced to shut down.

Every effort will be made to keep the mill operating, he said. Sandbagging and pumping operations will be attempted. These tactics were adopted in the floods of 1948.

Outflow of water at Penticton dam is 800 cfs. Officials of the federal public works department, New Westminster, believe the peak of the runoff will be reached about ten days earlier this year. Mission Creek this morning was down considerably compared with last week.

Mr. Simpson, however, believes a considerable amount of snow is yet to melt in the hills. This morning's lake level was 101.62 feet, compared with 99.62 a year ago. Peak last year was 102.23 while the 1948 record level was 104.82.

Red Cross Over Quota By $1,408

Final figures revealed today of $1,408.66 was collected in the Red Cross drive. Quota for city and district was $10,000.

According to campaign manager Colin Sutherland, country area collected $5,542.23 while city's share was made up of $5,738.63 collected and $128 in pledges.

RATEPAYERS MEET MAY 31

Due to the regular meeting night falling on a national holiday, May 24, the next meeting of the Kelowna Ratepayers' Association will be held in the Canadian Legion auditorium May 31 at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. M. Foulkes, Okanagan Union librarian, will be the guest speaker.

Kelowna Pilot Wins High Aviation Award

CARL C. AGAR, chief pilot, manager of operations and a director of Okanagan Air Services Ltd., has been awarded the prized McKee Trophy. The award goes annually to the flier who has done most to advance the nation's aviation during the year.

The 50-year-old flier, who pioneered the use of helicopters in mountainous regions of British Columbia, is well-known in Kelowna. The McKee citation, announced by Defence Minister Brooke Claxton noted that Agar "demonstrated great skill and courage on reconnaissance flights over very remote and difficult country."

It was the first time the trophy has been awarded to a helicopter pilot. The defence minister said Agar is an international authority on helicopter work. U.S. pilots, enroute to Alaska, have been instructed to confer with Mr. Agar "on methods of flying over mountainous terrain."

Recently the American Helicopter Society asked him to speak on helicopter work in mountainous regions to an annual forum in Washington, D.C. The U.S. Marines have praised the way he can make a helicopter stick to a mountain-side. When he lands, the infuriated egg-beaters stop on contacting the ground—most pilots have to roll the machines.

Sprayed Orchards

Born in Lions Head, Ont., Agar got his start in helicopter flying when Okanagan Air Services Ltd. purchased a machine for the purpose of spraying orchards from the air. He joined the RCAF in 1941 and before obtaining his discharge in 1945 was awarded the Air Force Cross for outstanding service in training pilots.

In 1946 he and his associates had a small charter service and aviation school at Penticton. Mr. Agar was the first pilot in British Columbia to recognize the possibilities in the use of the helicopter in commercial aviation. Living in the Okanagan Valley his thoughts naturally turned to the possibility of spraying the orchards by helicopter from the air. This type of work had been successfully done in the past in northern Washington by fixed wing aircraft.

Douglas Dewar, C.B.E., of Penticton, who was also keenly interested in flying, took an interest in the flying school and Mr. Agar discussed with him the possibility of

In Sicily The Source of Milk Supply Is Brought to Door of The Customer

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Following is another in a series of articles written by Harold (Herb) Capozzi for The Kelowna Courier. Capozzi is at present studying at the University of Perugia, north of Rome, after being awarded a Rotary Foundation Scholarship.)

This is a letter about odds and ends of goals milk right on the spot.

A letter about those pieces, things and incidents that are both interesting and diverting, but not really important enough to merit more than a few lines or a few chuckles in passing.

For example the milk delivery system in the villages of Sicily. The impressiveness of the catcombs in Syracuse. The tunnels, hewn out of the limestone by the early Christians 1,500 years before, were damp and moist. The only light was the flickering lantern in the hands of an earnest and sincere monk who was our guide. In his quiet manner, calmly and reverently he brought back to life the spirit of those ancient times, and in the flickering light of his lantern the tunnels were once again populated by those ardent Christians who risked their lives to practice their new faith.

$70,000 Fire Brigade Bylaw May be Submitted to Pay For Alarm System and Equipment

ANNUAL HOCKEY PARLEY TONIGHT

Tonight's the night when the past season's hockey operations will be fully revealed and plans made for next season's campaign. Executive members of the Kelowna Senior Hockey Association have appeared for as large a representation of the city and district as possible to turn out for tonight's annual meeting in B.C. Tree-Fruits Ltd. board room at 7:30.

GEORGE BROWN AGAIN HEADS ARENA BODY

George Brown, chairman of the Memorial Arena Commission since its inception in 1948, was re-elected to that post at the annual meeting of commissioners last night.

Vic Gregory was named vice-president, succeeding Robert Seath. Mr. Seath was named chairman of the building committee, one of three committees set up last night. Mr. Gregory also is a part of the building committee.

B. F. Parkinson was chosen chairman of the special events committee, assisted by Commissioner Charles Pettman. Robert Whillies is chairman of the finance and staff committee, assisted by Commissioner Nigel Taylor.

Would Also Cover Cost Enlarging Hall

A $70,000 bylaw to cover the cost of a modern fire alarm system and purchase of other much-needed equipment for Kelowna's rapidly-growing fire department, may be presented to the ratepayers in the near future.

For several weeks representatives of the fire department have been conferring with the City Council in committee, and it is understood details of the proposed bylaw were finalized at last Monday night's committee meeting.

Details of the proposed bylaw are not available but it is understood the matter may be discussed in open council next Monday.

The firemen state it is imperative that the present fire alarm system be revamped within the near future, in view of the fact dial telephones will be installed in Kelowna early next year. Under the present telephone system, the switchboard operator at the telephone company can direct volunteer firemen to a blaze after a general alarm has been sounded. When the dial telephones are installed, this will be impossible.

Under the proposed fire alarm plan, call boxes will be installed in various sections of the city. When an alarm is turned in, a code number will appear on the ticker-tape machine installed in the fire department, and trucks will then speed to the scene of the blaze. An additional truck, equipped with a booster pump capable of pumping between 750 to 1,000 gallons a minute, is also badly needed by the brigade.

The fire hall also needs enlarging, and under the proposal the structure would be extended to the west of the present building. This land is now used as a parking lot. The addition would give more room for the larger fire trucks now being used; would provide sleeping quarters for firemen and also a fire-proof vault for the expensive equipment.

Sidewalk Program Costing $15,000 Will Get Underway in Near Future

CITY Council Monday night set priorities for a $15,000 sidewalk construction program which will get underway shortly.

Prodded by Alderman W. T. L. Roadhouse who caused a mild filibuster when he enquired why the sidewalk project was being held up, city fathers finally agreed to pay one-third of the cost of walks on "through" streets. Project was temporarily postponed, it was revealed, due to the declining bond market and necessity of building up a stock pile prior to the city hard-surfacing four miles of roads with two and a half inches of black-top.

Providing the ratepayers in the affected areas approve the scheme, walks will be constructed under the local improvement bylaw. They will be of cement construction and will be five feet wide.

The sidewalk building program is in line with the city's policy announced when the 1951 budget was brought down several weeks ago. When the project is completed, residents will have at least one sidewalk in every direction inside the city limits.

City Engineer George Meckling this morning stated a series of resolutions will be prepared and presented to Council next Monday night, covering the streets where sidewalks are planned. Notices will then go out to landowners, and they will have 30 days to protest. If they do not object, work will proceed forthwith.

Streets given priority are: Ellis Street from Smith to Roanoke Avenues; Harvey Avenue, south side, Richter to Pender Street; Pender Street, west side, Harvey Avenue to city limits; Water Street, Doyle to Smith Avenues; Bernard Avenue, north side; Abbott Street, Park to Strathcona, east side. Notices will also go out to property owners for a sidewalk on the east side of Richter Street from Clem-

WILL DISCUSS RCMP CONTRACT WITH WISMER

Attorney General Gordon Wismer, in a letter to City Council Monday night stated he would investigate the threatened withdrawal of the RCMP from this city and would discuss the matter with the new police commissioner.

He pointed out, however, that since the RCMP took over policing B.C. municipalities, the matter is "out of my hands," and that the RCMP and the City of Kelowna must make their own arrangements.

The matter will be discussed again next Monday afternoon when Mr. Wismer visits the city.

Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games said he also wanted to discuss with Mr. Wismer the legal aspect regarding the land the city transferred to the B.C. government on the condition the government constructed a public building here.

Flower Girl At Peachland Dies Suddenly

Six-year-old Sharon Sundstrom who was to have been a flower girl at Peachland's May 24 celebrations, died suddenly in the Kelowna hospital.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Sundstrom, she was stricken suddenly with meningitis and died a few hours later. Sharon was to have been flower girl for May Queen Shirley Cousins and the two princesses, Doris Knoblauch and Shirley Mae Gorrie.

She is survived by two brothers, Richter to the RCAF and Gust, of Revelstoke; three sisters, Linda at home and Mrs. P. Spackman and Mrs. E. Rosner, both of Peachland. Funeral arrangements are in charge of Day's Funeral Home, Kelowna.

PENSIONS HEAD TO VISIT CITY

Ex-servicemen who wish an interview with the pensions advocate, should contact Don White, secretary-manager of the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

City Makes Application Low Rental Housing Plan

APPPLICATION will be made to federal and provincial governments for a low rental housing scheme.

This was decided at Monday night's City Council meeting after Alderman W. T. L. Roadhouse reported two housing officials visited the city and surveyed available property. Recently, 35 applications for housing accommodation were received by the city, while Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has about a dozen applications.

Number of houses required will be decided later, but it was thought 20 would be an adequate number. Occupants will not be able to purchase the houses, but rent will be around $10 a month. Rental is based on the individual's ability to pay.

There will be no capital expenditure insofar as the city is concerned, but in the case of individuals unable to pay the required rent, the municipality makes up the difference.

The mayor said all houses would not necessarily be bunched together. While application is being made immediately for the housing scheme it may be next year before construction gets underway.

JOHN McCULLOCH DIES SUDDENLY

John McCulloch, proprietor of McCulloch Airedale Waters, Vernon, and widely-known throughout the Okanagan and other parts of the province for his active interest in hockey, lacrosse and other sports, died suddenly in Revelstoke this morning.

According to word received here, he suffered a stroke in the railroad centre last night where he had gone on business. He was believed to be about 40 years of age.

DISAPPOINTING

Less than 30 boys bothered to register with the Kelowna and District Minor Lacrosse Association, officials announced disappointedly this week. This does not include pee wees, who are being banded into a separate organization.However, despite the "poor showing" on the part of the kids, the men whose main aim is to get as many kids playing boxia as possible and assure a constant supply of senior calibre will go ahead and try to form leagues along the same lines as in minor hockey during the past winter.They hope more boys will register from time to time, providing sufficient numbers then to have two or three teams in categories that correspond with juvenile, midget and bantam in hockey.A workout was held for juveniles Tuesday night and there's to be a practice for midgets at 7 o'clock tonight. Bantams are called out for Saturday at 9 a.m.

Former Intelligence Official Says Major Outbreak of War Possibility ---But Soviet Union Holds Answer

A major outbreak of war is a very real possibility within the next few months, N. Van der Vliet, former member of the British Intelligence service and former member of the Allied Council in Germany, told the Kelowna Gyrus Club on Tuesday night. He gave one of the outstanding reviews of current problems ever heard in Kelowna.

While a major outbreak is a distinct possibility, it is not necessarily probable, the speaker emphasized. The only persons knowing the real answer were the heads of the Soviet Union. The real danger lies in a misinterpretation of western actions by the Soviet heads. If they interpret our actions as meaning that we are planning a war against them, it may well be that they will decide to strike before we are fully prepared and the next few months would seem to be the favorable time. Many major wars have started in September, after the completion of the harvest.

Russians Realists
The speaker felt that some system of limiting agreements on the main points of dispute might avert war at this time, but the Russians are realists and if they decide that a war must come it may well be that they will consider now is the time.

On the other hand, Mr. Van der Vliet said, history shows that Russia has never started a major war. They have invaded other countries, it is true, but only after a long period of defensive action. But again, it is quite possible that they might depart from the historical pattern and it is certainly true that the fundamental doctrine, or communist thinking is to dominate the world.

It is highly important, he believed, that during the next few months particularly, the western nations should exhibit a solid front of mutual confidence. Diametrically opposed to the communist doctrine, our fundamental desire is so simple we frequently lose sight of it: we want to remain free, he said. Mr. Van der Vliet, who is of Russian ancestry and who was born in a Russian embassy, drew on his wide experience in the intelligence field to review vividly the basic principles of the situation in international affairs today.

Overrun Countries
Following the war, he said, the western allies adopted a containment policy of communism. That is, they agreed that they would permit communism to overrun no more countries. As a result, there was the episode in Greece, another in Turkey, the Marshall Plan was adopted and it was followed by the North Atlantic Pact and, eventually, Korea.

There had been some differences between the U.S. and other U.N. nations in viewpoint; this had been demonstrated in Korea. However, he felt that the only method of obtaining a realistic appreciation of the situation was to remember that one area is only one area and it is the whole which counts. The right policy to follow can be determined by asking oneself just what the Soviet Union would like best. The answer to that question is the Communists would be most happy to see the western nations become involved in a full war with China.

Vastly Outnumbered
In speaking of the Russian strength, he said the Russians had over 175 divisions, well equipped and of good fighting quality. This number could be expanded to over 200 in a matter of a few weeks. Against this there are three British divisions in Germany, three United States divisions and three French. These with a smattering of other troops make what he called a "black picture."

At the moment the production potentials of the west are much greater in the vital war materials than those of Russia. But should Russia overrun western Europe, it would mean that she would command a production capacity in steel, coal and other vital war supplies equal to those of the rest of the world. It would be a black picture, indeed.

The partitioning of Germany was an unfortunate move, he felt. It has brought no advantages to the west and did remove a united Germany which probably would have been an excellent front line barrier against any Russian attack westward.

NOTED CHINESE MINISTER WILL SPEAK SUNDAY

Rev. Jessie Wong, the only ordained Chinese woman minister outside of China, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Evangelical Tabernacle at both Sunday morning and evening services.

A noted missionary woman who has been engaged in evangelistic work in Shanghai since 1922, she is now on the staff of the Ling Liang World Wide Evangelistic Mission which was founded by Rev. S. K. Dzao, Th.D.

This Chinese church, whose headquarters were recently moved from Shanghai to Hong Kong, is the only independent Chinese mission in Christendom.

Takes up Foreign Post
Outstanding among the mission's multi-phases of work, is the sending of native missionaries from China to foreign lands to bring the gospel to the masses. On May 4, 1950, Rev. Wong left China for Vancouver. Enroute she spent three months in the U.S.A. conducting meetings at different denominations. She is the minister of the Christ Church of China at Vancouver.

Rev. Wong was personally responsible for the founding of the Cantonese Gospel Mission in an out-of-the-way corner of Shang-

Plans Nearing Completion For Changing Power System At Westbank and Peachland

By MARY E. SMITH

PEACHLAND—Plans are nearly complete for the districts of Peachland and Westbank to receive electric power from the West Kootenay Power and Light Co., under an agreement with the B.C. Power Commission.

This change-over is scheduled to coincide with the opening of the new plant at Whatshan; which will be sometime in June. The B.C. Power Commission will then close its diesel-operated plant at Westbank which is supplying power to Peachland and Westbank at the present time.

Under the new system, West Kootenay will supply power to B.C.P.C. and the latter will have charge of distribution facilities.

The Westbank plant, built in 1939, was purchased from Mr. Grant in 1943 by B. B. Reece, and later sold to the B.C. Power Commission in 1946, at which time the commission purchased the Peachland hydro plant as well.

The Peachland plant was then closed, a connecting line built, and the Westbank power plant then supplied both districts till the present time.

The old Peachland hydro plant which obtained power from the falls on Trepanier-Creek, was built in 1908. This was the same year that the district incorporated itself into a municipality, and with the building of the dam on Trepanier-Creek, installed a domestic water system. The hydro plant generated 50 h.p. but was later increased to 80 h.p. with the addition of another motor. Operators of this plant included (during early years) Tom McLaughlin, Jack McLaughlin, Frank Kinchin, John Buchanan. At first this plant supplied power only part time and residents recall when arriving home late at night from Kelowna or Summerland, suddenly seeing the brightly-lighted town black out completely. About 1938, twenty-four hour service was started and has of course continued.

The diesel plant at Westbank was augmented from time to time, distributors were rebuilt, transformers added, to keep pace with the growing demand for power, necessary for packing houses, cold storage lockers and domestic users.

Huge diesel engines at the plant are maintained by a chief operator and three other operators. When the plant shuts down, these engines will no doubt be shipped to other points in B.C.

A 12,000-volt line has been laid across Lake Okanagan.

Nova Scotia Apple Board Quits Due to Criticism

THE Nova Scotia Apple Marketing Board will suspend operations at the end of May and growers in that province will once again be on an every-man-for-himself sales policy. The Board operations are being suspended as a direct result of a request made some time ago by the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association.

Born of the war, the N.S. Marketing Board has never been able to find a satisfactory solution for the problems it faced. It had neither the full confidence of the growers or the full authority to enforce its regulations.

The Kentville Advertiser reports that the move was not unexpected as it had been requested by the NSFGA for two reasons. In the first place, the legislation under which the board operated has proved inadequate to give the board powers to control the whole crop, and in the absence of these powers, an intolerable situation could be expected to develop. Those growers and packing houses who co-operated willingly with the board would be placed at a disadvantage by those who would go deliberately against its regulations.

Secondly, due to a variety of reasons, the board did not now appear to have the backing of a really large majority of the growers. But it would appear that the growers themselves are in favor of a central selling scheme, although they are shying away from support of the present board. In a questionnaire circulated last winter, a majority of growers declared themselves in favor of central selling, but on another question signified a lack of confidence in the present setup.

The board has marketed the Nova Scotia apple crop since 1939 when it was set up under the war measures act. This year—1951—the crop will be marketed on the old basis of every grower doing his own selling.

The Kentville Advertiser, published in the heart of the Annapolis Valley, last week commented editorially on the demise of the marketing board as follows:

"Valley apple growers will probably remember 1951 as the year of the great experiment. After selling their product for a dozen years through the Nova Scotia Apple Marketing Board, they will be free this fall to handle their own marketing problems."

"For some years, criticism of the Board has been building up. It has involved fundamental problems of the individual, a whole lot of technical problems, and personalities. As time passed, the criticism became more severe, and farmers grew more restive. The situation disclosed by a questionnaire circulated last winter was that while a majority of growers favored the principle of central marketing, only a minority favored continuation of the Board under present circumstances."

"Therefore, the announcement last week that the Board's operation would be suspended with completion of the marketing of the 1950 crop, was nothing more than the logical conclusion of a democratic process."

PLAN TO IMPROVE LAND AROUND WESTBANK-BRIGADE TRAIL CAIRN

WESTBANK—Plans for further improvement of the plot of ground surrounding the H.B.C. Brigade Trail Cairn were made at the May meeting of Westbank Women's Institute, when members voiced their gratitude for the interest taken by the Coutts Bros. of Westbank Garage, in this project.

These busy men, besides cleaning up the ground and repairing the fence, have offered to look after a suggested flower border if a fill back and beyond the cairn can be made. The Institute will endeavor to organize a work party to do this work and to put up a new fence, it was stated.

It is also hoped to rouse a greater sense of civic pride in the fact that, of all the sites claiming to be those of the old fur brigade trail, Westbank was chosen for the honor. It is felt, too, that greater interest should be taken in the Okanagan Historical Society.

Reporting for the recent Red Cross and cancer campaign, Mrs. W. H. Moffat revealed that in both drives Westbank far exceeded its quota. The sum of $450.50 was raised for the Red Cross, the quota having been set at $300. In the case of the cancer campaign Westbank's quota of $100 was over-subscribed by almost $100, the total amount collected being $191.95. Mention by an ex-pat of the hospital annex to the effect that the wards there could be made more cheery and livable with little cash outlay, led Mrs. Moffat to state that the Institute might take responsibility for such improvements provided permission was granted them by those in authority, resulted in the decision to approach the hospital matron regarding the matter.

Mrs. A. C. Hoskins presented her regular report of the Hospital Women's Auxiliary (Kelowna), whose activities result not only in greater comfort for patients and better equipment in the hospital kitchen, but will include also the furnishing of a semi-private ward in the new hospital wing at an estimated cost of $865.

Agriculture Today

Refer enquiries to J. F. Caplette, District Agriculturist, Court House, Vernon, B.C., or your district horticulturist. This column is provided by federal and provincial agriculturists as a service to farmers and ranchers.

Ensilage
For the past 50 years or more a large proportion of the successful dairy farmers have relied on ensilage to maintain production during the winter months. The only crops thought usable for the purpose was corn and sunflower, and these crops are still used extensively for this purpose. Over the past ten years, however, the interest in grass and legume ensilage has increased. Use of ensilage for beef herds has also increased, both for feeder and for breeding stock.

Why Grass Silage?
Grass silage appeals to more and more farmers because it favors soil conservation in that it tends to lengthen crop rotations, keeping more cropland in grasses and legumes more of the time; it saves the hay crop during an all-too-common wet laying season; it converts coarse hay crops and weeds into more palatable and more nutritious forage than is done by drying them into hay; and it saves more of the overall feed value, the protein, carotene, and minerals that are badly needed for winter use. It makes for more nutritious milk and other animal products. In the above respects, therefore, grass silage is good for the land, good for the livestock, and good for the consumer or the farmer himself.

Corn Still Holds Sway
At a field day in Woodstock, Ontario, attended by Ontario's foremost grass and corn experts, it was shown that cost of producing grass ensilage was 20-25% cheaper per ton than corn ensilage, but almost everyone agreed that there was still ample room for using both on a livestock farm. The reason was that in a year of a short hay crop, a good tonnage of corn would go a long way to offset it. Corn also worked into rotations on farms where no grain is grown and hay fields must be turned over every six or seven years.

Cost of production is, however, one of the most important features of grass ensilage. While corn requires spring tillage, seeding and cultivating, a hay field can produce a crop of ensilage in the normal crop year very cheaply. Where irrigation is used this is very important, particularly with the advent of sprinkler irrigated pasture for beef and dairy herds. When pastures advance too quickly a clip can be taken anytime to use ensilage. This flexibility of grass ensilage makes it a very important crop on all livestock farms.

The following is a comparison of the food value of both types of ensilage:

	Dry Mat.	Usable Prot.	Total Nut's
Corn Silage	27.4	1.2	18.1
Alfalfa Silage	25.0	2.7	13.7
Alf. Sil. wilted	24.0	4.1	21.3
Tim. silage	30.9	1.8	19.1

Since most ensilage is made from a legume grass mix, an average can be drawn between the timothy and wilted alfalfa mixtures. The important fact of this table is that the legume ensilage is high in protein which is always the high cost portion of the feed. The next two articles will include making of ensilage and types of silos.

Watch For Carrot Rust Fly
C. L. Neilson, provincial entomologist, today warns Interior vegetable growers of a pest that has been a serious menace in the Lower Mainland area for years. The carrot rust fly is a compara-delicate fly, somewhat resembling a fruit fly. It is the larval or worm stage which attacks and damages carrots, parsnips, celery and parsley. There are two generations usually and under some conditions a third. Adult flies appear in May, again in July and August and the third generation, when present, in September. The flies lay eggs on the crown of the host plant or in the soil near the plant. The eggs hatch in a few days into maggots. In young plants, the feeding of the maggots either stunts or kills the tip growth, and forking often results. In older carrots the maggots bore into the flesh and cause rusty tunnels. Heavy infestations are indicated by drooping discolored tops. The maggots of each generation feed for three or four weeks and then leave the carrots to form a small reddish brown puparium from 2-6 inches deep in the soil near the host plant. Here they undergo a change and emerge as the adult flies.

Control Recommendation
1. Apply 5% chlordane dust at the rate of 80 lbs. per acre. In a concentrated band directly over the row) as soon as the carrots show their first forked leaves. A second application at 50 lbs. per acre is needed during the last week of August.

2. In home gardens, 5% chlordane dust can be placed in the furrow with the seed at the rate of 1 tablespoon per 10 feet of row.

3. Harvest the carrots as early as practical and store only maggot-free roots as the maggots continue to feed after harvest and will encourage rotting.

Note: Benzene hexachloride is recommended for this pest in the Fraser Valley but under Okanagan conditions, we have no information regarding the possibility of off-flavor taint, which occurs under some conditions.

Cabbage Maggots
Another point stressed by Mr. Neilson, is that the control of cabbage maggots is now relatively simple, as well as effective and cheap. The treatment also works on cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts, but must begin with the young seedlings. From the time the young seedlings emerge in the seed bed until they are transplanted they should be kept dusted with 5% chlordane dust. This control prevents them from becoming infested while in the seed bed. Immediately after transplanting (not one or two days later) 5% chlordane dust or 1% B.H.C. dust (benzene hexachloride) should be applied, one puff at the base of each plant. If the plants are killed at a later date, then the application must be repeated or some infestation and damage may occur.

MAY QUEEN AND PARTY HONORED AT PEACHLAND

PEACHLAND—The teen-agers of Peachland held a wiener roast and square dance party at Deep Creek last Saturday. The party was given in honor of the May Queen-elect, Miss Shirley Cousins, and her princesses, Miss Doris Knoblauch and Miss Shirley Mae Gerrie.

PEACHLAND W.I. PLANS ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW

PEACHLAND—Members of Peachland Women's Institute enjoyed an interesting talk by Dr. R. Palmer of Dominion Experimental Station at Summerland. Dr. Palmer's address "The Best Garden with Least Effort," highlighted this agricultural meeting. Plants and cuttings were exchanged by members. An agricultural convener, Mrs. George Topham, was appointed to succeed Mrs. J. Cameron who has held this office for the past few years. Plans were made to hold the annual flower show in June.

The W.I. which is responsible for the cenotaph grounds, has been repairing the flower beds. The old hedge has been torn out, and lavender plants, donated by Summerland Experimental Station, will be planted. A West has volunteered to set these out. Plans were made for members to attend the valley W.I. conference at East Kelowna on May 22. The treasurer reported $79.17 had been collected for the Conquer Cancer fund. Tea was served by hostesses Mrs. H. McGill and Mrs. A. E. Miller.

MENTAL HYGIENE
NEW GLASGOW, N.S. (CP)—A Pictou county branch of the Nova Scotia Society for Mental Hygiene became a reality at a meeting here. Dr. S. H. Prince, president of the N.S. society, said the new Canadian program in this field is essentially preventive in character.

CARE GIVEN TESTING LAWN GRASS SEEDS

Lawn grass mixtures, like field and garden seeds, must meet certain definite standards with regard to the presence of desirable turf-making species, weed seed content and germination as prescribed by the regulations under the seeds act. The quality and grade of a lawn grass mixture is established only after the careful analysis of a representative sample in a seed laboratory of the plant products division, Canada department of agriculture. The purity analysis of a lawn grass mixture is carried out on a small weighed portion of the well-mixed sample. The various grass species constituting the mixture are identified and the percentage of each determined and the total percentage of pure seed in the mixture exclusive of weed seeds, chaff and other inert matter is calculated. The percentage of weed seeds is also determined, the noxious or more troublesome ones such as the plantains, chickweeds and the like being reported in numbers of seeds of each kind per ounce of the mixture. Sieves are useful in making preliminary separations, but the final separations of the various components of the mixture must be made by careful visual examination, frequently with the aid of magnifying lenses. E. J. Doyle, District Analyst, points out that the seeds of some of the small-seeded grasses are very difficult to differentiate.

Under the Tower At Ottawa

By O. L. JONES, M.P.

MAY 9, 1951

Since writing my last letter, an effort was made to get recognition for the water transportation and hotel employees that took part in the recent railroad strike and who were not given recognition in the settlement. It took part in the discussion on behalf of the workers in this category who earn their livelihood on the Okanagan Lake and on page 2,617 of Hansard I am recorded as follows:

"I should like to briefly outline a little problem we have in the interior of British Columbia, and this has a distinct bearing on it. I feel I would be remiss in my duties as a member of that area if I did not bring it before the house. On Okanagan lake we have barges, tugs and other equipment by both the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National. The men operating this equipment are well organized, and are part of the transportation system, so were affected by the strike. As has been pointed out by the hon. member for Winnipeg North Centre, today they feel that they have been let down by Parliament. They were led to believe, rightly or wrongly, that an implicit promise had been made that they were to be treated fairly with all other railroad workers. They took that from the statement of the Prime Minister (Mr. St. Laurent), and from the preamble to the act. They still feel that way today, and believe they have been badly let down.

Vital Service

The men employed on these barges and tugs are of a very high calibre, the masters, general officers and the men themselves. Many of them are former naval men or deep sea seamen who have turned to lake service in their advancing years. They feel that they are supplying a vital service in the transportation system, because except for this water transportation the railway would end at Kelowna. They feel, therefore, that they are a vital part of the system, and the same situation would apply to Kootenay lake and the other lakes in the interior of British Columbia. It is felt also that no sound reason has been advanced for excluding them from the general recognition of the railroad workers, which naturally produces a divorcing of their group from the general category of railroad workers. "I wish to place on record the reasons they advanced for placing themselves in the same category as ordinary railway workers. They are very simple. They are as follows:

- "1. The earnings from our efforts go into the railroad coffers.
- "2. Our pay cheques are issued by the railroad companies.
- "3. Our work is governed by rules and regulations issued by the railroad companies.
- "4. Should we incur any expense through breakage or waste we have to explain very thoroughly to some office of the railroad company.
- "5. From the standpoint of peculiarities of duties our deck crews have to switch cars to freight cars just as do railroad brakemen and conductors. This is additional to the regular ship's duties.
- "6. Touching on the hotel employees issue we leave it to you to take notice of your railroad timetable and newspaper advertising, namely, the high cost of living, telling you that hotels owned and operated by the railroad companies offer the finest of service and accommodation to the traveller.
- "7. Last but not least—when our agreement express it has to be re-negotiated, the divisional superintendent, these recommendations of which are subject to final ratification by the general head office of the railroad company.

"That seems to me to place on record the close touch there is between the water transport workers and the general set-up of railway transportation system in Canada. They feel that they have the same grievance that the other railway workers have. They went on strike for the same reasons, at the same time, for the same principle, namely, the high cost of living and their inability to meet it. They feel that they should not be segregated from the bodies rendering public service under identical conditions, identical management, subject to identical punishment, merit marks and so on. Of course they have to do something about it. They have a feeling that they may again have to consider strike action. I am not saying that is a general feeling, but they have got to do something to raise their present standards.

May I point out that another thing that seems to me to tie them in with other railroad workers, is that before any organized body of workers who contemplate strike action may take such action they must receive the sanction of the government through the Department of Labour. The water transport workers and the hotel employees were granted such permission to take part in the railroad strike. To my mind this is a tentative admission by the department of labor that both groups were subject to the same governing factors and should be dealt with collectively. Parliament unconsciously acknowledged the unity of the workers by calling the bill not the railroad workers' bill or the water workers' bill, but the maintenance of railway operation bill. I submit that the railway could not be maintained without these vital links in its operation. To my mind the act was intended to cover them.

"These men, unfortunately, are still working a 48-hour week and they are still under the 1939 agreement. The company is quite satisfied because that suits them, and they refuse to allow any changes to be made in those working conditions. These men have had no raise in pay since 1948, and we all know how greatly the cost of living has gone up in the meantime. It is on their behalf that I would ask that consideration be given to granting to these men, by negotiation, if necessary, the same terms, the same increases in salary and the same lowering of the weekly working hours. I ask that their case be subject to immediate negotiation. I believe that they are as much entitled to a home life that the longer hours they would give them as are their colleagues with whom they work every day. I think that it is unfair, and constitutes an injustice, when one group of a given service is segregated and told, 'You shall have nothing while the others are treated well according to the settlement made.' 'I feel that the government has a responsibility. Whether what has happened was intentional or unintentional is a matter which I am not going to go into at all. But at any rate, the impression was given that these men would be treated on a basis similar to that which was used in the treatment of all other railroad workers that were on strike. To bring back the good name of parliament, and I believe the Prime Minister (Mr. St. Laurent) feels that something should be done on behalf of these men. I appeal to him to use either negotiation or some other instrument—and I do not know what is available—whereby a hearing could be given these men and their case be dealt with on its merits, in order to give them a fair chance to clear their standard of living to meet the present high cost."

The passing of the 25% increase in sales tax was a foregone conclusion owing to the majority available to the government, but nevertheless several members criticized this imposition—one member going so far as to say that he knew of only two other countries in the world today that imposed a 10% sales tax of this nature and he referred to Russia and Spain, and he did not admire the company the Canadian government was keeping. The talk centred on the fact that this hidden tax would affect those in the lower income bracket group much more than those in the higher brackets. After a lengthy discussion, the government refused to make a single concession and the bill goes into effect at once.

Mr. Howe announced the increase in cost of living index which has now advanced from 179.7 to 181.8 in the month of March. He submitted the rising cost of butter was a major cause of this increase. The balance of the increase was largely due to other foods and clothing. This statement serves to emphasize the fact that the poor people are the ones carrying the heavy burden of the increased cost of living. In spite of rising costs, the government is adamant when it comes to instituting price controls. Events may justify their stand; on the other hand, many of us feel that the government is to blame for the excessive increase in the cost of living. It has completely ignored the demands of organized labor, boards of trade, city councils and other organizations throughout the Dominion who have been pressing for government action on price controls with a view to checking the spiraling cost of living.

The Prime Minister introduced a bill that has to be passed before the necessary changes in the British North America Act can be put into effect. This bill seeks power from the British Government to change the act in such a way that the government can, in co-operation with the provinces, bring in a bill that will remove the means, test from old age pensions going to people over 70, and will allow arrangements to be made whereby pensions will be payable at age 65. Naturally, every member in the House was in favor of passing such bill. It would appear now that the means test will be definitely abolished on the 1st of January next year. In the meantime, the power that will be given the provinces to levy a 3% sales tax is under heavy attack by all sections of the Dominion. The attack has been so heavy in the case of some provinces that they have already made public statements to the effect that this hidden tax will not be imposed in that particular province.

A discussion which took place this week on external affairs brought to light both the strength and weakness of the Canadian policy in international affairs. Stress was laid on the fact that Canada is not carrying out her commitments to aid the underprivileged nations of the world. It was contended that the basic problem facing the world today is food. We were told that for instance the United States has nearly 2 1/2 million tractors while in India there are only 10,000. It was pointed out in the Colombo report that power and machines are the key to plenty on the land—factories to make fertilizer and instruments; machines to till the soil; drains to provide water for irrigation, etc. These things can very well be supplied by Canada in order to remove the continuing stress of hunger and famine, particularly in India, where the borders of Soviet Russia are not far removed. Our failure to assist will be Russia's opportunity and, presumably, would be a welcome opportunity for a closer alliance with this great Asiatic country.

Timber destroyed by fire in North America each year, it has been estimated, would build a five-room house every 100 feet on each side of a road between Vancouver and Winnipeg.

CRUSTY DINNER ROLLS

• Measure into a large bowl 1/2 c. lukewarm water, 1 tsp. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 1 envelope Fleischmann's Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 mins., THEN stir well.

Add 3/4 c. lukewarm water and 1 tsp. salt. Add, all at once, 3 1/2 c. once-sifted bread flour and work in with the hands; work in 3 lbs. soft shortening. Knead on lightly-floured board until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl. Cover with a damp cloth and set in warm place, free from draught. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down dough in bowl, fold over, cover and again let rise until doubled in bulk. Turn out on lightly-floured board and divide into 2 equal portions; shape each piece into a long roll about 1 1/2" in diameter. Cover with a damp cloth and let rest 15 mins. Using a floured sharp knife, cut dough into 2" lengths and place, well apart, on ungreased cookie sheets. Sprinkle rolls with cornmeal and let rise, uncovered, for 1/2 hour. Brush with cold water and let rise another 1/2 hour. Meanwhile, stand a broad shallow pan of hot water in the oven and preheat oven to hot, 425°. Remove pan of water from oven and bake the rolls in steam-filled oven for 1/2 hour, brushing them with cold water and sprinkling lightly with cornmeal after the first 15 mins., and again brushing them with cold water 2 minutes before removing baked buns from the oven. Yield—18 rolls.

WHEREIN NOTEWORTHY ATTRIBUTES MAKE AN IMPRESSION

I was impressed with the sincerity and resolve of a couple of fellows I chatted with recently. Both are in charge of large operations that effect in varying degrees the sports life of this community.

Both, in themselves, are worthy of support in their particular fields, if for no other reason than they are sold on the game they are trying to help, and if they get nothing for the job they are doing, that's okay as long as some good was accomplished. One of them is LARRY SCHLOSSER, coach of the ELKS RED SOX senior baseball team; the other is GEORGE PEDLAR, chairman of the B.C. Lawn Tennis Association's promotional committee.

For various reasons senior baseball here is at its lowest ebb in years. Building it up again appears to be a mighty big task, but one that Schlosser is willing to tackle. We wish him success because it's a major item on the summer menu here and it still is one of the greatest spectator sports in the world.

Those who followed baseball (there were hundreds) in the late thirties will remember the big-shouldered and good-natured Sox pilot of today. He played here three years, pitching most of the time. A shoulder injury that has plagued him for years prevented him from probably becoming the greatest right-hander ever to come out of the CROW'S NEST PASS. The last time he re-injured his shoulder was just last fall in a basketball game here.

He doesn't claim to be Western Canada's top coach, but he feels the many years he's had at playing and coaching in BLAIRMORE and other parts of ALBERTA since leaving here in '39 have given him a fair idea of how a ball club should function.

ABOUT CLEANING UP
Larry's a man with one intention now—and that is to do his darndest to give KELOWNA a scrapping, competitive ball team that will be a credit to the Orchard City. He was hurt at first, and still is to some extent, when he learned the game had slipped so far back that few players showed any desire to try out.

I can imagine how he felt when, for that exhibition game at Rutland, he couldn't even field a full team. His hopes of using some promising youngsters were dashed by the formation of the junior ball team, the CHIEFS. However, he'll go along with the junior organizers in the tenet that part of the senior problems will be solved with a guaranteed source of future players from the junior ranks.

One of Schlosser's aims has his unqualified endorsement. He's all for cleaning up the cussing and foul, abusive language that has brought some sports heretofore to gutter level. I daresay that hundreds of the finest of sports boosters have quit attending games because of the ungentlemanly conduct of some players and their filthy remarks, all within earshot of scores of patrons.

That's a point participants in hockey, lacrosse, baseball and softball often ignore. It's a source of considerable disgust to parents to have their boys and girls exposed to such goings on and given the impression that that is the proper thing to do. I maintain such verbal abuse has no place in any sport and anyone who is prepared to try to keep a game at a decent level (and he'll absorb terrific punishment in doing it from the guys who think they're smart) deserves a medal for courage.

ON THE BEST MAN

Pedlar, as most of you know, is credited largely with the revival of tennis in the province to-day. Some three years ago the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association grabbed the bull by the horns and said to do something about the situation where every year Canada's best tennis failed to reach first base in the Davis Cup play.

The CLTA is funneling every nick it can get its hands on into junior development and promoting the game. Each provincial branch, alert to the possibilities, especially this year after the results of the past couple of annuities began to manifest themselves, is digging out its best men to spend this important program along for a year, who is employed by a wholesale supply house in Vancouver, devotes his spare time and holidays to organizing tournaments, instructing on courts and giving chalk talks wherever he goes.

Last week-end he completed a week of instruction and promoting here. He was literally begged to come here after the success of his first week the previous year. Some 225 individuals—senior and junior members of Kelowna Lawn Tennis Club, Kelowna Junior Tennis Club and scores of high school students—know a lot more of the game to-day because of Pedlar's efforts.

George, as I mentioned earlier, impressed me with his sincerity. Likewise he was impressed with the keyed up interest shown by all who clamored for his services last week and the calibre of play, which he said was "remarkably improved over last year." He had one regret other than his inability to stay here longer, and that was that the courts in The City Park were not getting the development they should. He feels if they were fixed up properly and with some organization, the courts in STANLEY PARK or KITSILANO wouldn't be any more popular than those here.

ABOUT FUTURE STARS

"A year or two, Kelowna will be proud of its best talent," George told me shortly before he left. I asked him deliberately what chances we had for some high-ranking laurels and was totally unprepared for the answer which he gave unhesitatingly and with emphasis.

"I really believe that Kelowna will produce a Canadian junior champion next year. I also have high hopes it may happen this year—in the person of VAL WINTER." Valerie, you remember, made an impressive showing in the B.C. junior tourney last year.

"MOIRA BROWN and IRENE OATMAN are two other prospects" he went on. "And in a few years there's no doubt that MARGARET (Corky) MCCORMACK will be on top, if she continues to improve the way she has been."

About the junior boys: "You can quote me that I believe GLEN DELCOURT, JOHN LOGIE and MICHAEL CATCHPOLE are very good prospects," Mr. Tennis in B.C. said.

Thanks, George. We all hope you'll better with your forecast than one scribe hereabouts I could see by looking into a mirror!

KELOWNA NABS HEALTHY LEAD IN GOLF PLAY

A substantial lead towards what is hoped will be a successful defence of the inter-club laurels held here the past two years was gained by Kelowna golfers Sunday against a strong team from Vernon.

Playing at home, the local shotsmiths rang up a 24-16 edge on the Vernonites in the first half of the match for the Lefroy-Johnston trophy. Second half comes off in the Vernon fair, Sept. 18, when, from the Kelowna angle, it is usually deemed advisable to have a sizeable margin to work on to stay in front.

Trev Pickering and Harold Johnston chalked up the only sweep, defeating their Vernon opponents Art Lefroy and Clem Watson 4-0. Johnston of Kelowna and Lefroy of Vernon, on opposing ends Sunday, are the donors of the trophy for which the two clubs are striving.

Complete results of Sunday's matches were (Vernon players first): Lefroy and Watson 0; Johnston and Pickering 4; Hannah and Betts 2 1/2; Steele and Shirreff 1 1/2; McTaggart and McDowell 1; Newby and Williams 3; O'Keefe and Davison 1 1/2; Owen and Ehaman 2 1/2; Maynard and LeBlond 2; Allan and Currell 2; Emmett and Ley 1 1/2; Kane and Tomiye 2 1/2; Small and Feedham 2; Loken and D. PROPERTIES

The DORREEN MINE is a gold-silver-lead-zinc mine, five miles by road north of Doreen, B.C., a town on the Canadian National Railway 120 miles east of Prince Rupert and about 50 miles west from Hazelton, B.C.

The DORREEN property, consisting of eight claims, is unusual in that the gold-base metal vein, averaging 17 feet in width, is exposed continuously for a depth of 1000 feet and on the strike for 300 feet. This vein has reasonably assured ore estimated at 10,000 tons and probable ore at 20,000 tons with a total net smelter value of $1,422,000. The assay value of average samples of this ore at today's prices is $70.05 per ton.

Since 1949, the present directors and their associates have expended over $100,000 in the construction of a modern 50 ton mill, a road to the property and in the purchase of mining equipment.

Purpose of this financing is to bring property into production this summer and to develop additional ore reserves.

OIL MAKES A COUNTRY STRONG

WHEN DID THEY OPEN UP THE WEST?

The "opening up of the west" didn't end when the railroads and the settlers and the wheat had come. Nor is it ended today. It is a continuing story of our country's growth and each generation adds its chapter.

Today it is prairie oil that holds our new opportunity, bringing with it new benefits and new security.

In four years discoveries in the west have increased Canada's proven oil reserves more than fifteen fold and the production of crude is six times what it was. These advances, and the half-billion dollars the oil industry has spent on them, have not benefited the west alone. All of Canada is stronger and more prosperous.

Our people and our factories have been made busier by the needs of the growing oil industry. There are new jobs and new businesses. Many millions of dollars once spent for foreign oil now stay at home—or are available for other purposes. And of special importance, our supply of oil is being made more certain, less dependent on sources beyond our borders.

Opening up of the west goes on, bringing closer Canada's self-sufficiency in oil, giving new strength to the nation.

About Canada's Oil

Imperial has drilled more than 1,000 wells in western Canada searching for and developing oil fields.

The oil industry is expected to spend about $4 millions a week on exploration and development in western Canada this year.

By replacing imports, production from Canada's new oil fields is expected to save 150 million U.S. dollars in 1951.

VERNON DROPS PROTEST ON BOND PRICE

VERNON—A spirited stand by Mayor T. R. B. Adams seemed mainly responsible at City Council meeting for the dropping without action of a proposed resolution condemning the Federal government for allowing the price of Victory Loan bond issue to drop below par.

At the Council session a week earlier, some strong language was employed in criticism of the government and the charged bond over sagging values of $45,000 worth of Victory Loan held in civic sinking funds. Bids for purchase were about three points below face value.

The principal objections were voiced by Ald. D. D. Harris. On Monday night, the charged bond over sagging values of $45,000 worth of Victory Loan held in civic sinking funds. Bids for purchase were about three points below face value.

Another blast was forthcoming immediately as Ald. Harris rose to read his resolution. "These bonds were sold under the guise of patriotism," he declared, and were guaranteed to be saleable at par. Here his words were interrupted with the comment that Victory Loan was only guaranteed by the government to be redeemable at par at maturity and for the payment of interest at rate set out.

"That may be the government attitude," Ald. Harris said, but was definitely not the attitude of the chap selling them." He added that he was unaware of the fact that the bonds were not guaranteed to bring par at any point throughout their life.

No complaint was registered when these bonds were selling as high as 104 and 105, the mayor countered. He acknowledged that it "may seem strange to me to be ardently defending the actions of the present government," but facts are facts. Passage of the proposed resolution, he said, would be "very contradictory" in that this stand by the government was one of the anti-inflationary measures taken and recently the Council had endorsed a resolution asking for price controls.

The government's withdrawal from purchase of Victory Loan to support the price has been much bearing on inflation," Ald. Harris replied. The biggest cause of inflation, he added, was removal of the excess profits tax.

Ald. R. W. Ley entered the discussion briefly with the remark that the drop in bonds prices was working a hardship on "the little people" who had sacrificed to make purchases in response to the government's urgings.

Values of all securities fluctuate, Ald. Frank Ryall said, declaring that he could not see how the government would guarantee the principal at all times.

The discussion ended without the presentation of Ald. Harris' resolution.

Three Distinct Honors Awarded Rutland School

RUTLAND—Three distinct honors have been awarded students attending the Rutland High School. A plaque was recently awarded the school by the Strathcona Trust, an educational fund set up by the will of Lord Strathcona, for outstanding achievement in physical education.

The school also was awarded one of 20 Red Cross scholarships for outstanding work in this field of endeavor. The scholarship provides for a representative to attend a two week course at Jasper in July.

Two Rutland students were singled out for certificates of merit for their acting ability in a play presented at the Okanagan Valley Drama Festival held recently in Vernon. They were Shirley Everett and Naida Chernenkoff.

The executive of the Rutland Parent-Teacher Association held a meeting in the home economics room of the high school. Main business was the forming of a nominating committee to approach the membership with a view of getting names of those who will stand for office for the coming year, to be voted on at the general meeting to be held June 1.

The committee consists of C. B. Sell, honorary president; Mrs. R. C. Laine, past president; and Mrs. L. Preston. It was the opinion of the meeting that a combined May and June meeting would be advisable with an election of officers, followed by a showing of the film, "Thirty-nine Steps" in the auditorium.

Of particular interest was the announcement that Rutland High School has been presented with a plaque, awarded by the Strathcona Trust, an educational fund set up by the will of Lord Strathcona, for outstanding achievement in physical education.

Presented by Inspector Matheson Monday of last week at an assembly period, this plaque, up for an annual competition for the first time in the Central Okanagan Inspectorial District was accepted for the Rutland School, by Alfred Gatske, president of the students council.

Further proof of outstanding work in this field of endeavor. One of twenty scholarships in B.C., it provides for a representative to attend a two weeks course to be held in Jasper in July, with a view toward the training of leaders in Red Cross work who will return next year to school.

The Parent-Teacher Association voted the sum of $10 toward the travelling expenses of the student who will represent Rutland. Two Rutland students were singled out for certificates for their acting ability in the play "Spider Island." Directed by Miss K. Smith, the play was entered in the Valley Drama Festival held at Vernon last week. This entry was non-competitive, and individuals awarded certificates were Shirley Everett and Naida Chernenkoff for their roles of "Dulcie Peabody" and "Stan Mayo."

Following the business of the evening, Mrs. C. A. Shunter presented a report of the recent P.T.A. conference at Victoria, theme of the parley being "Your School." That the Parent-Teacher Association is now a recognized part of the educational system and is rapidly becoming big business, with a membership of almost 35,000 was stressed by the provincial president Mrs. E. A. Evans. A concise account of the financial picture was given by Mrs. Shunter in explanation of the proposed increase in the per capita tax.

There's comfort in the thought of having a full coal-bin well before the snow flies... and you get rid of that annoying chance of being stranded without heat through forgetfulness. Because of the high cost of living, you—like many other Canadians—may find you haven't the ready cash to lay in a full winter's supply of coal.

Yet it's the smart thing to do—it's easy, too. Simply see Fred Baines, Bank of Montreal manager at Kelowna, about an economical loan to cover your fuel-money. Anyone in a position to repay can borrow at the B of M.

You can arrange repayment in easy instalments. Interest comes to 27 cents a month for each $100 borrowed, if repaid in 12 equal monthly instalments (equal to 6% interest per annum). There is no other charge. Whether your loan amounts to more or less than $100, this small cost remains proportionately the same.

Make sure of keeping your family warm in a snug cheerful home next winter. Visit Mr. Baines today, while the matter's fresh in your mind.

Whatshan Power Energy Now Flowing in Valley

Electric energy from the $8,000,000 Whatshan hydro electric project is flowing into the Okanagan and Kamloops districts of the B.C. Power Commission.

Whatshan's 25,000 horsepower output is not yet in steady flow, but the first in a series of tests was made last week. According to Jack Stewart, of Vernon, the system superintendent, for the commission, tests on relays and load conditions for Whatshan power are being conducted with one of the two 12,500 k.v.a. units.

The operation is still in the experimental stage, but in a week's time the Okanagan should be consuming Whatshan power regularly.

GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION OF KOREAN WAR GIVEN IN LETTER RECEIVED FROM FORMER CHINESE RESIDENT

EDITOR'S NOTE—A graphic description of the fighting in Korea and the conditions experienced by both soldiers and refugees, is given in a letter received from Suey Lee, former Kelowna resident, now serving with the 7th cavalry regiment of the famed U.S. 1st cavalry division.

Suey attended school in Kelowna and his parents still live in this city.

His letter reads:

"...last March our regiment fought alongside the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry in the Hwangchow River area.

"From Hwangchow we went to Chunchow which is now a pile of ashes and debris, and then across the 38th to Hwachon Reservoir. When the enemy launched its spring offensive, we shifted to the Northwestern front again.

"As usual on the first few days of the enemy's offensive, they struck us hard and fast. The roads were just jammed with vehicles and tanks heavily laden with troops on the withdrawal towards Seoul. The destitute Korean refugees, stricken by hardships and poverty of war, were moving southward each carrying a tremendous load of their earthly belongings on their backs or heads.

"As the U.N. forces moved southward they burned and destroyed objects which might be of value or benefit to the enemy. There is not too much left to be destroyed now. The next time they move north again there won't be any rice straw left to burn or to lay on. This war has brought more than great destruction to Korea.

"From all I have seen of South and North Korea, the towns and villages are nothing but a heap of ashes and debris. The countryside is strewn with fox-holes, pill-boxes,

Needlecraft News

HERE'S GOOD news for knitters. Now you can knit socks in interesting colours and patterns without darning bobbins to try your patience. Pictured here is the new sock in its three stages... the T-shaped piece which is worked first, the sock before it is sewn up, and the completed sock shown on the stand. The main colour is dark grey and the pretty lattice stripes are knitted of light grey wool. You may choose any combination of colours you wish, of course.

When knitting a new pattern one often comes across knitting terms with which one is not familiar, so for your information we have listed below some of the phrases that may have puzzled you.

W.L.F.W. is the abbreviation for "Wool Forward."

This method is used in knitting. The wool is at the back of the work after knitting a stitch and must be passed between the 2 needles to bring it to the front of the work as if for purling. Insert the point of the right hand needle into the next 2 stitches on the left hand needle and carrying the wool over and round the point of the right hand needle knit the 2 stitches together in the usual way. The work is again at the back of the work ready for the next knit stitch.

W.R.N. is short for Wool Round Needle. — This method is used when making a W.L.F.W. stitch in purling. The wool is already in front of the needle after purling a stitch so with the wool right round the right hand needle once before purling the following 2 stitches together.

W.O.N. means Wool Over Needle. — This method is used when making a W.L.F.W. after purling a stitch and before knitting the next stitch. The wool is already in front of the needle after the purl stitch so leaving the wool in front, knit the next 2 stitches together in the usual way.

L.H.L. is short for Through Back Of Loops. — This method is often used instead of p.s.o. Insert the point of the right hand needle through the back of 2 loops on the left hand needle instead of the front and knit the 2 stitches together in the usual way. Instructions may also read "knit through back of st." This makes a twisted stitch. p.s.o. means Pass Slipped Stitch Over. — Used in Fancy patterns and as a method of decreasing. Put the point of the right hand needle into the next stitch on the left hand needle and slip the stitch onto the right hand needle without knitting it. Knit or purl the next stitch then pull or pass the slipped stitch over the knitted or purlled stitch and let it drop off the needle.

S.L.St. is the abbreviation for Slipped Stitch. — Used when transferring a stitch from the left hand needle to the right hand needle, without knitting or purling it. Put the point of the right hand needle into the next stitch on the left hand needle and pass the st. onto the right hand needle without knitting it. Always slip a stitch knitted unless instructions tell you differently.

If you would like to try the new sock shown here, simply send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to this paper asking for Leaflet CW-20, the INNOVATION SOCK.

WINFIELD PTA WILL ELECT NEW OFFICERS

WINFIELD—The regular monthly meeting of the P.T.A. was held in the school recently with 33 present.

In the absence of George Pretty, President, Stan Robinson, principal, presided.

Miss Lane's class gave two rhythm band numbers, two songs, "Listen to the Echo Ring" and "My Scooter," as well as an action story.

Election of officers will take place at the next meeting June 8. A nominating committee was appointed.

June 18 was the date set for a play day in Kelowna, and it was suggested that the Silver Green Bus be chartered for the day.

It was thought advisable to erect "Safety Signs" at Lake Shore Inn during the swimming season.

Guest speaker of the evening was Mr. E. Greenaway, vice-principal of Kelowna Elementary School, who gave a fine address on the part played in the child education by the schools and homes. He outlined some of the changes between the schools of yesterday and today. The system today is far superior with all "its much criticized frills," he said.

The new system aims to develop the child mentally, physically and spiritually based on individual abilities and needs.

The next meeting of the W.C.T.U. will be held in the Free Methodist Church on May 21 at 8 p.m.

A good crowd is expected as the report of the provincial convention will be given.

Mrs. J. Rathgeber has been a patient in the Kelowna hospital for some time.

Charles Davidson, a resident of Winfield district for many years who has been spending the winter months in Cuernavaca, Mexico, is renewing old acquaintances before leaving for his home in Victoria.

Personal income and income of corporations have gone up in the same proportion since 1939. Both have been multiplied by three.

VERNON BOARD OF TRADE HAS PERMANENT "HOME"

VERNON—A new home for the Vernon Board of Trade was sanctioned last week when the civic to proceed with preliminary work on the site selected in the Pioneer Park on Barnard Avenue west.

The city will build the cement foundations and lay on sewer and water connections and move existing structure. First priority will go to the erection of new comfort facilities at Lakeview Park, but the Board of Trade job will be rushed, according to instructions given City Engineer F. G. deWolf.

Vernon has experienced a sharp decline in the value of construction for the first four months of the year as compared with the corresponding period in 1950. Building Inspector P. Neville Smith reported that the total to April 30 was $115,200. April figures were $46,000 comprised principally of five dwellings with a combined value of $32,800.

Should further mobilization or army units be carried out, the city staffs of various departments will be badly depleted of key men. Mr. deWolf told the Council that a pol-

THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS PRESENTED BY GEORGE PRINGLE HIGH SCHOOL

WESTBANK—An enthusiastic audience composed of parents and friends of pupils of Westbank and Peachland attending George Pringle High School enjoyed the presentation of three one-act plays in the school auditorium Friday evening. School principal Bruce Goodworth welcomed the large gathering and took the opportunity of thanking those families who offered their cars to carry pupils to the recent drama festival held in Vernon.

The first play, "Come Out of It," was directed by G. Gerrie, with Shirley Mae, Gerrie and Janice Moore responsible for makeup. The lead was taken by Gary Topham, Peachland, who, as in former plays in which he has taken part, stole the show. Gary, a prospective electrical engineer turned hypnotist, worked his arts on friends and enemies alike, and finally succeeded in foiling the plans of "Slippy," played by Gordon Carano, who, as a gangster, was hypnotized into emptying his pockets of considerable loot, and of being made to believe he was nothing but "a naughty little boy." Others taking part in this play included, Doris Knoblach, Heather Eddy and Dan Blower, of Peachland, and Arthur Popp, Cheryl Seltenrich and Irene Wingerter, of Westbank.

Second Play
Play No. 2 was titled "High School Daze," though Carol Tyack, Westbank, as "Jane" appeared to be in anything but a daze. Keeping up with the times even at the expense of her school work, was her main ambition; in addition, this sophisticated young miss proved capable of solving her chum's love problem and of revealing the cupid of that "man-trap" Marge Andrews, played by Audrey Seigrist, of Peachland, who set out to capture the star ballplayer, Dan Arnold, played by Henry Ficke. Thanks to Jane, Dan was restored to his rightful love, Gloria, played by Bernice McCaulder, Westbank. The only thing Jane seemed incapable of quelling was her young brother, Billy, who in real life is Ken Blower, of Peachland. Margaret, of Peachland, played the mother and Westbank, was Jimmy, Jane's boy-friend. W. MacLachlin directed this play. Barry Stubbs prompted and Rose Knoblach and Lois Walker looked after make-up.

Third Play
The third play, "In Good Hands," written by Mrs. N. Purlow, of the staff of G. P. High, told the story of "Tommy," played by Ralph Bradbury, Peachland, a young boy at the mercy of a heartless maid, Stella, taken by Verna McCaulder, Westbank, who, as soon as her mistress is out of sight threatens her small charge and leaves him alone in the dark. The Stranger (and would-be burglar) played by Lloyd Cornish, of Westbank, determines to teach Stella a much-needed lesson and stages a mock kidnapping. Ron Kennedy and Marda Fearnley as Mr. and Mrs. Knolls send the maid packing and Tommy is enthusiastically received. During intervals between plays musical and dancing numbers were given, with Maureen McClure, of Westbank, entertaining with a piano solo, Chopin's Valse in F Minor. Donna Clements and Kay Williamson, of Peachland, gave a Scottish dance which was hugely enjoyed and last but by no means least, charming little Gwyneth Wells, of Peachland delighted the audience with her ballet solo, the rhythm and balance of which was beautifully executed.

A Quality Paint Brush Is One of Most Prized Possessions To Painter

HAVE you started to touch up those bare spots on the house, woodshed or garage? Remember this is Paint-up, Clean-up" season and the Junior Chamber of Commerce urges you to do your part in beautifying the city.

The recent Jaycee beautification drive was an outstanding success and many people co-operated by cleaning up their property.

And while we are on the subject of "Paint-up, Clean-up," the following press release covering the care and feeding of paint brushes will be of interest to those who are doing a little painting around the house. Early spring is always the best time to brighten up the home with a coat of paint.

What a blue ribbon setter is to a dog fancier, and a thoroughbred racehorse is to the owner of a racing stable, a good quality paint brush is to a professional painter. It is something to be protected, groomed continually, and prized above all other possessions.

Secret Is Bristles
The secret behind all this attention is the bristles from which the brush is made. A good brush will contain a large percentage of Chinese hog bristles, the finest bristles for paint brushes to be found anywhere in the world.

Painters and brush manufacturers place so much emphasis on that point that the collection and preparation of these bristles in Northern China constitutes a very large industry. It takes a Chinese hog an entire lifetime to grow enough bristles for one good paint brush, and each year some 22 million hogs are called upon to make the necessary sacrifice. This lowly animal runs practically wild, living off the land. Vegetation being sparse, he doesn't get very fat in the process. Thus the extreme winters which he has to face cause his hide to thicken and his bristles to grow long. At this point he becomes a paint brush.

Naturally the grave international situation has brought with it a tightening of bristle supplies. The Chinese sources, which normally supply approximately ninety per cent of world requirements, have entirely dried up. The necessity to

BOY SCOUT COLUMN

YIPES! EVEN THE SCOUTS!
Everything's higher today—Canada's Boy Scout membership increased by 3,768 in the first quarter of 1951 to reach a new all-time high of 121,448 at the end of March.

WITH A CAST OF 5,000!
Canada's biggest Scout show was staged recently when 5,000 Cubs, Scouts and Rovers of the Toronto Metropolitan Area presented a three-day Cyclopedia of Scouting in the Coliseum. More than 50,000 people, including many from points outside Toronto, attended the display.

THAT'S THE SCOUT SPIRIT
Given $100 from the Canadian Scout Brotherhood Fund to help them recoup flood damage to their Scout headquarters and equipment, the 3rd Winnipeg (St. Vital) Troop has returned $75 to Canadian Scout headquarters "having received some additional money from other sources."

TO LEAD JAMBOREE TROOP
David Green, a Montreal Scout, has been named Scoutmaster of Canada's Troop of 32 Boy Scouts to attend the Seventh World Scout Jamboree in Austria next August. Assistant Scoutmasters will be Rev. R. L. Rolls, Hamilton, Ontario, and James K. Dryborough, Winnipeg, who will also be Troop Quartermaster.

"A SCOUT IS A FRIEND TO ALL"
Edmonton, Alberta, has a Friendship Club made up, for the most part, of elderly people without relatives and with few friends in that city. Recently the Cubs and Scouts of the 2nd Edmonton (St. Faith's) Group staged their second annual entertainment for the Friendship Club, then served refreshments supplied by the Group's Mothers' Auxiliary.

NO BARRIERS
While Scouting is for all boys, regardless of religious beliefs, the religious policy of the Boy Scouts Association requires "that every Scout shall belong to some religious denomination, and shall faithfully carry out his religious duties."

Appearing in city police court April 28 on a charge of speeding in the city, Harry Baran was fined $12.50 and costs.

SHIRLEY COUSINS IS MAY QUEEN OF PEACHLAND

PEACHLAND—Miss Shirley Cousins has been elected May Queen for Peachland. She succeeds Miss Dorine Oakes. Her attendants will be Miss Doris Knoblach and Miss Shirley Mae Gerrie.

In 1949-50, 22 cents out of every federal government tax dollar went for welfare, social services and grants to special classes, particularly farmers. In the same year the U.S. government spent six cents per tax dollar for similar purposes.

Chief sources of food for the Canadian Eskimos are the seal, walrus, white whale, caribou and Arctic sea trout.

Brushes used for water paints should be cleaned in water.

Use Solvent
All brushes, after they have been cleaned with the recommended solvent, should be washed with the solution of mild soap and water, and wrapped as outlined above.

Be careful never to clean your brushes near a flame or open fire. Neglected brushes can be softened and reconditioned with specially prepared cleaners, obtainable at your hardware dealer or paint store.

When a brush is brand new, all short loose bristles and dust should be worked out before it is used. New varnish brushes may be best washed in some inexpensive thinner before being put into varnish. This will remove any foreign particles that might mar the varnish coat. A new brush should first be dipped in the paint to a depth of two or three inches and wiped across the edge with the mixing paddle several times to work the paint well into its clean bristles.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR ANNUAL W.I. RALLY AT EAST KELOWNA

EAST KELOWNA—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Community Hall with the president in the chair, and twenty-one members present. One new member was welcomed.

The minutes were read and the treasurer presented a very satisfactory financial statement. Reports were given on two events which were held recently, the fashion show, and the plant and bulb sale.

Thank you letters were read and the correspondence dealt with. Letters expressing the members' thanks will be sent to N. May of the Summerland Experimental Station; F. Thomas, Sr., East Kelowna and W. Todd, South Kelowna, for their generous gifts of plants and bulbs.

A cheque for five dollars for the cancer fund was approved, also one for five dollars for the arthritis fund. The ladies' dressing room in the Community Hall was discussed but nothing definite was decided. Mrs. A. W. Rogers gave her report on the Okanagan Valley health unit.

Final arrangements were made for the W.I. Rally which takes place in the Community Hall on Tuesday, May 22. This will be the first time the rally has been held in East Kelowna. Mrs. R. Smith was appointed tea convener for the rally.

Afternoon tea was served by Mrs. H. A. Porter, Mrs. C. Ross, and Mrs. L. Senger.

News was received at the week-end of the death of John (Scotty) McDowell, who passed away in Vancouver after a short illness. John is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. C. McDowell who reside on the upper bench. The sympathy of all is extended to Mr. and Mrs. McDowell and family.

PEACHLAND WANTS GOV'T SHARE COST MAINTAINING BENCH ROAD;

PEACHLAND—A long discussion took place at council meeting regarding the runoff water which has done so much damage to the Princeton road recently. This is the main road from the lakeshore to the upper benches in Peachland. It was thought that this condition which occurs every year could be remedied to some extent by taking care of the extra water by flume or pipe. At present the municipality is repairing the road which was damaged this spring.

This road serves the municipality and is used by many persons driving to fishing camps, the mill, and cattlemen with cattle on grazing lease. L. E. Willis, district engineer, met the council and heard their views that this road be given a secondary road classification. It would then be partly maintained by the provincial government on a 40-60 basis (provincial 40%—municipality 60% of cost or upkeep). Mr. Willis will refer the matter to the highway board.

It has been found necessary to increase the domestic water rates by fifty cents a month ($3.00 is new rate) to cover increased costs, due to pumping water from lake. Power costs of the pump average about $80 a month. Pumping, installed last winter as an emergency measure, will now be on a permanent basis.

The gravity system, originally servicing 45 consumers, now is inadequate for the 90 customers on the line. This system will be used when feasible and supplemented by pumping.

The higher rate will continue until 1953 when indebtedness on the old system will have been paid. The pump used for water has an intake 180 feet out in the lake in water 40 feet deep.

A contract was let to Kurt Doml for about $1,100 to build a jail and washroom facilities at the municipal hall. This jail is made necessary under the new contract with the R.C.M.P. The addition will be at the north side of the municipal hall.

The tax rate bylaw was passed—the mill rate for this year being set at 35 mills, the same as for the past two years.

Councillor Hawkesley was asked to get tenders for the building of 1,560 feet of cement sidewalk, to be built from the municipal hall to the curling rink corner.

Councillor Kalemback reported two new timber culverts had been built across Dry Creek, in Trepanier district.

The council appropriated $75 for cleaning up the municipal park and picnic grounds at Deep Creek. Suitable sign will be erected at the park.

A controversy over the rights-of-way was settled with E. Ehlers, of upper bench.

From 1939 to 1948 gross value of Canada's manufactured goods rose from $3.5 billion to more than $11.8 billion.

Merchandise imports into Canada reached in 1950 the all-time peak of $3,174 million.

University enrolment reached the all-time peak of 85,000 in Canada in 1947-48; it is now about 70,000.

Canada's northern neighbor, Alaska, was purchased by the U.S. from Russia in 1867.

Westbank Trade Board Told Price of Freedom Is Eternal Vigilance

WESTBANK—J. L. Palethorpe, Penticton was the guest speaker at the May meeting of Westbank Trade Board, Monday evening. President W. H. H. Moffat introduced the speaker as one well versed in the work and policy of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Palethorpe dealt with this work and policy and went on to Canada's rapid expansion during the past fifty years, during which it has grown from a small nation to one that with less than one per cent of the world's population, ranks seventh.

Dealing with the concern felt by the Canadian Chamber over the threat of Communism, the speaker reminded his audience that the price of freedom is eternal vigilance and posed the question that the free nations might be getting soft. "Toughness of mind and spirit is the only answer to this terrible threat, he went on, urging that individuals as well as nations must develop such strength and again fall in love with freedom.

The first item of business dealt with following Mr. Palethorpe's address was that of settling up a civil defense organization. Mr. Moffat was appointed in a temporary capacity at an earlier meeting to confer with the Kelowna committee, which he has done on several occasions. Reporting on what the committee has accomplished to date, Mr. Moffat stated that the entire valley will be co-ordinated as a unit and that organization of this central unit is well under way.

With the Okanagan slated as an evacuation area, Westbank will become a staging centre and will be required to set up facilities to look after a number of people in the event of an emergency. It is therefore required that a permanent representative to act on the central committee be appointed. After some discussion, during which it was agreed that the matter covered more than trade board membership, it was decided that the board shall sponsor a general meeting to deal with the matter. Mr. Moffat told members that J. H. Horn has signified his willingness to address such a meeting. The executive council will arrange time and date of meeting.

Fire Protection L. Gaddes, reporting on the fire protection district proposal, said that the petition for signatures of land-owners is now in circulation. Canvassers have, however, experienced the feeling that greater assurance that taxation for such district was needed. While not appearing on the petition preamble, such assurance was promised at a former meeting, and Mr. Gaddes requested that some further wording clearly indicate this fact. No opposition to the proposal to form a fire protection district has been met with.

Rural mail delivery apparently will be an established fact here shortly, according to a letter from Victoria in which it was stated that Ottawa has approved the proposed route. Additional boxholders names were required however, and these have since been secured and will be added to the list.

Indignation followed mention of the approach to the dump ground which for its entire length from the highway in, is strewn with piles of tin cans and rubbish of all sorts, dumped there by those who either will not co-operate and thus do not care, or by those who do not appreciate what it has cost the Trade Board to secure such suitable ground. One member voiced his opinion that it was not the ordinary householder who was guilty of this utter disregard for sanitation and appearances.

To remedy the present situation members planned to gather Wednesday evening with tractor, dump-truck, shovels, rakes and elbow grease to clean up the existing disgraceful mess. Means to apprehend those whose slovenliness is responsible for the present situation will be taken if it happens again.

Will Clean Road Complaints that every vehicle passing through the village raises a cloud of dust in its wake, brought a decision to use the fire truck as a hose off the surface of Highway No. 5 for its length through the town. This will be done during clean-up week and householders are asked to co-operate by concentrating on their own yards and immediate surroundings.

W. J. D. Walker, chairman on the committee appointed last year to investigate improved street lighting told the meeting that the question of raising revenue for this purpose had brought the committee up against a blank wall for the reason that Westbank is an unorganized district without means of taxation for such expenditure. It was suggested that the matter be put before the public meeting to be called to deal with civil defense organization to learn whether power users throughout the district would consider a voluntary levy for the purpose.

John Cameron of the Ferry Snack Bar, Westside, appealed to the

WITH A SMILE

The Socialist revolution in Britain is going farther than anyone ever dreamed. I have the evidence before me in black and white. Civil servants in England, Scotland and Wales, it says, are being taught how to smile! It's the biggest news from those parts since they nationalized the railways.

Story here in the Sunday Post says the civil servants are getting lectures and demonstrations on how to be polite to the public (is there no tradition safe from the Labor monsters?), and are even coached in the niceties of friendly language.

For example, instead of greeting the public with a weary "What's your complaint?" the civil servant of the future will smile, flash his government-issued dentures, and enquire, "Can I help you?" That's what it says right here.

I am hoping that our own authorities will keep a close check on the results of Britain's "Courtesy Colleges" for the problem of the frozen-faced civil servant is international and we have our generous share of them in this country.

Mind you, having had occasion to investigate the salaries of civil servants, I marvel that any of them can work up more than a pale grin, but still we all have our troubles these days and the Dyspeptic Kisser can't be pardoned on mere economic grounds. The smile is still a free commodity and there's no reason why the civil servant should be hoarding his.

I should explain, hastily, that I'm not one of those who share the common anti-Socialist view that a man loses his will to be pleasant through lack of competition or that the government worker is automatically a miserable oaf. You'd look a long way before you'd find a more consistently cheerful bunch, come sleek, snow or Boston Bull terriers, than the valiant postmen.

The truth is that we're all hypercritical of the civil servant these days. We're conscious of the fact that he's more or less on our personal payroll. Consequently, we expect more from him. Also the poor fellow is usually carrying some duty which is distasteful to us—customs and immigration men, tax office clerks, for example—and the odds are that we'd be cool to a Danny Kaye in such bureaucratic clothes. All this probably gives the more sensitive civil servant a terrible, hunted complex and tends to bring out the beast in him.

How to replace this with the radiant Ipana smile and the obliging manner is a staggering problem and, short of installing laughing gas jets in their desks—or a living wage—I see no early solution.

Presuming that we were to follow in Britain's footsteps and institute some sweeten-up classes for civil servants we would confront first the problem of the old-timer, familiar to you all, who is physically incapable of ever smiling again. This poor old gentleman's face has moulded firmly into a gaze of weary resignation and short of plastic surgery his ligaments will never again register joy, simulated or otherwise.

I happen to have run into this type not so long ago when I stood up for a friend and his bride who decided to get married at the Court House. We were "routed" through the red tape of several grim gentlemen, obviously living only for their retirement. The wedding party started out with a brave front of laughter, but in the face of these glum pans we wilted noticeably. The gentleman in charge of the actual ceremony performed his duties as if he were issuing a dog license.

I have in mind, too, a certain stamp clerk at the post office whose mournful features, framed in the arch of his wicket, send every passerby on his way with a little pellet of sadness in the heart. There is a man who meets the public, who needs no more energy than it takes to tear a perforated line and make change, yet persists in displaying the personality of a rheumatic frog.

We might well take a leaf from the social book and carry a little less about efficiency and a little more about spreading that golden stuff called good will, possible under any old system.

The Victoria Merry-Go-Round

By JIM NESBITT

British Columbians may well be proud of the Crease Clinic of Psychological Medicine at Provincial Mental Hospital at Esquimalt.

In a few years it has progressed so far and so well that the American Psychiatric Association has declared it one of the six finest of its kind in North America. That is no mean honor. Indeed, it makes the B.C. clinic the envy of many in Canada and the United States.

The Crease Clinic received an association citation because it has "developed outstanding techniques and methods which have resulted in improved care and treatment of patients."

Two men in our legislature were largely responsible for establishing the Crease Clinic—E. E. Winch of Burnaby, who hammered away for it year in and year out, and George Pearson of Nanaimo, who brought it into being when he was provincial secretary and minister of health and welfare.

Great credit, too, must go to Dr. A. L. Crease, retired director of provincial mental health services, for the hard work he did in getting the new clinic started. British Columbians, too, should be grateful to all the men and women who work there. They could earn much more in private practise, but what they are doing is more important to them than money.

Every dollar of the taxpayers' money spent at the Crease Clinic is well worth while. Last session the legislature upped the expenditures from $458,000 a year, to $747,867 in the current fiscal year.

This is to the good. With the extra money, the Crease Clinic will be able to press forward, to prevent mental illness, which is so much cheaper in the long run than trying to cure it.

Speaking of progress in medicine, physical as well as mental—the closing of the Ottawa government's quarantine station at William Head is a great tribute to the progress medical science has made in recent years.

Because communicable diseases are now brought under control before an epidemic starts, the quarantine station is no longer necessary.

The Department of National Defence has taken over the property, about 10 miles from Victoria, and it will be used in Canada's expanding defence program.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

COURTESY BEST FORM OF ADVERTISING
The Editor,
The Kelowna Courier.

Dear Sir:—We hear much these days about bringing industry to our valley.

Many hours, much talk, and taxpayer's money, is being spent to further it all.

One of the largest industries, if we may call it such, is the tourist business. The magnitude and importance of this industry can be appreciated when it is realized that around 50 million dollars was spent last year—in British Columbia alone!

In the valley—and in Kelowna especially—we have everything the tourist demands, so much so that many, myself included, prefer it to the much publicized Banff. The C.P.R. has spent millions putting Banff on the map.

Could we not, Mr. Editor, through the medium of your widely-read paper, obtain the co-operation of the people of Kelowna to go out of their way to greet visitors to our city and show them that they are really welcome!

There is one such citizen who has made many friends by introducing himself to every driver of a motor car which bears a visitor's license plate, welcoming him, or her, to the Kelowna, and also putting his splendid knowledge of the city at their disposal.

This gentleman is retired and has made this courtesy a hobby. He understands, claims that he is not giving but receiving, and his life has been enriched by the people he has met in this way.

It proves this incontrovertible fact: courtesy is our best form of tourist advertising—and costs absolutely nothing.

Yours truly,

A. E. JAMES.

This may be the last year in big-time boxing for a lot of veterans in the heavyweight division.

Ezzard Charles, the champion, is getting ready for a second sweep through the row of ancients and before 1951 is over, Joe Louis, Jersey Joe Walcott, Joey Maxim and Lou Spadid may be through as contenders for the crown.

But waiting in the background is a group of young heavyweights, apparently timing their moves for 1952. About the middle of next year Charles will be 31 and perhaps ready to be toppled off his throne.

Among the young hopefuls are Rex Layne, Rocky Marciano and Roland LaStarza. Of this trio, only Layne is clamoring for a bout with Charles this year—he may get it, too. But the others are biding their time.

Charles is eager to break Louis' record of 25 title defenses. But before he takes on Layne, he'll probably have to take care of the old guard.

The champion already has signed to meet Maxim in Chicago May 30. If he wins—and it is believed he will—the Negro titleholder will take on Walcott and either Savold or Louis.

Promoters are lining up a Walcott-Charles bout for July. Savold and Louis may battle it out in June for the right to meet Charles in the fall.

Charles should brush aside the oldtimers. Then the youngsters probably will make their bids.

Layne, Marciano and LaStarza all may be ready by then. The fireworks may brighten up the heavyweight scene.

Of the whole crew, Layne appears to have the best chance to win the title. The sturdy-built 22-year-old slugger holds a victory over Walcott. His professional record shows 30 victories, two draws and only one loss.

Marciano, a 26-year-old former shoe factory worker, is a crude, aggressive fighter with a good right hand. He has the makings of a topnotch boxer and could upset the title dog.

LaStarza, 23, is a cool, careful fighter with a record of 44 wins and one loss. He was beaten about a year ago by Marciano, who has shown no desire to give him a return bout.

The baseball career of a famous Canadian pitcher seems finished. Right-hander Phil Marchildon, once the top hurler for the Philadelphia Athletics, was released early this month by Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League.

The Leafs signed the Penetanguishene, Ont., player last fall in the hope he would make a comeback but Marchildon showed barely a trace of his former mound prowess.

You've probably been reading some of those spring training rave notices about young Mickey Mantle who is being touted by the New York Yankees as the future successor to their great centerfielder Joe DiMaggio.

And it seems, so has Mantle's draft board. Yankee Manager Casey Stengel says the board has recalled the remarkable rookie to give him another look-see.

Stengel was a bit put out about it because the 20-year-old player was classified as 4-F (unfit for military service) because of a bone infection in his left ankle which apparently is permanent.

"People have read all those write-ups about him," said Stengel recently. "They've read about how fast he can run and wonder why he isn't in the army."

Dr. Sid Gaynor, a bone specialist who does most of the surgery required on the Yankee athletes, says an infection such as Mantle's could become active at any time and incapacitate the victim for varying periods.

The Yanks, of course, were willing to take a chance on that, Mantle is reported that good. They'd probably keep him around even if he were able to play only two or three heavy construction. While one grizzled veteran was keeping a sharp eye on the big Caterpillars, grading the approaches, another was superintending the work of the pile driver or the big crane.

"That's not an operator must be new," one authority (clerk in shoe store) observed dryly. "His scooper isn't high enough." It took but a glance to see that he had hit on the problem precisely.

We all studied this for a few minutes, ignoring the little boy who was new to the job. A tractor operator, who was beyond the range of our advice, kept working his own sweet way. Fool!

Now the crane expert (a real estate salesman) let a few pearls of wisdom fall from his lips. "If they'd use a shorter cable on that which she'd be easier on the hoist," he said (or something like this).

We turned our attention to this now and fascinating problem, our minds not particularly agitated about anything. In a moment of disloyalty I realized that they were probably getting more work done. But the big man was our kind of bridge-builder, the dream man of all we who sit and watch when they are throwing steel in the sky.

School Board, City Council At Odds on Award Intent

KAMLOOPS — School trustees have flatly rejected the City Council's request for a joint application for clarification of the intent of the arbitration board's award on the 1951 school budget.

The school board feels it has carried out the direction of the arbitration board and "doesn't see any necessity for further clarification of the decision."

City Council had asked the school board to join with it in requesting the three-man arbitration board to clarify the intention of its award.

The arbitrators on March 27 ordered the total of the school board's budget reduced by $24,953. The trustees obeyed the ruling but the City Council contends that the way they did it resulted in an effective reduction of only $15,000 insofar as city and country taxpayers are concerned.

IRRIGATION BODY ELECTS NEW TRUSTEE

RUTLAND — Louis Constantini was elected the new trustee for the Black Mountain Irrigation District after a total of 184 out of 400 eligible voters turned out at the poll held in the B.M.I.D. office.

T. S. Hughes was returning officer. The other two candidates were Iwao Yamaoka and Archie Weighton. Mr. Constantini received 74 votes; Yamaoka 62 and Weighton 45. There were three spoiled ballots.

A. W. Gray, retiring trustee, whose term expired, declined reelection. It was pointed out the election leaves the low rate area with four members out of a five-man board and still leaves the north bench without representation. A spokesman said he thought this

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

Questions and Answers about Newspaper Advertising

Q. Do you know of any measure for the value of newspaper circulation to an advertiser such as the standards that a business man uses in buying merchandise?

A. Yes. In the well-known standards that have been approved and adopted by advertisers—namely A.B.C. standards.

Q. What is A.B.C.?

A. A.B.C. stands for Audit Bureau of Circulations, a cooperative association of 2000 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers in the United States and Canada.

Q. What is the Bureau's work?

A. To audit the circulation of newspapers and periodicals so that advertisers can buy space on the basis of definite standards and verified facts and figures.

Q. How does A.B.C. accomplish this?

A. The Bureau has a large staff of experienced auditors. These men visit the publisher members annually and make audits of their circulation records. This information is then published in A.B.C. reports for the use and protection of advertisers.

Q. What do these reports show?

A. A.B.C. reports tell how much circulation a newspaper has, where this circulation is, how it was obtained, how much people paid for it, and many other verified facts that advertisers should know when they buy advertising.

Q. Are all publications eligible for A.B.C. membership?

A. No. Only those with paid circulation. This is important to advertisers because it is the best proof of interest and purchasing power on the part of the readers.

Q. Is this newspaper a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations?

A. Yes. We are proud of our circulation and we want our advertisers to know just what they get for their money when they advertise in our columns. The audited information in our A.B.C. report gives them the complete facts.
